

16 January 2015

Dear Employer

Iyalla John Alamina - an asset to your workforce

I am pleased to confirm the professional commitment shown by your employee, Iyalla John Alamina through their membership of the Institution of Engineering and Technology (IET). The Member category of membership is awarded to individuals who have demonstrated a proven level of knowledge and who have signed up to a professional code of conduct. This means that you, as an employer, can be assured of your new employee's commitment to developing their skills and acting in an ethical manner.

The IET is one of the world's leading professional organisations for engineers and technologists, with over 150,000 members worldwide. The enclosed leaflet tells you why having an IET member as an employee is an asset to your organisation and details some of the products and services Iyalla John Alamina will be able to call on in the course of their work for you.

In addition they can debate and share best practice with our global network of expert members, rely on personal and professional support, keep current with briefings and updates and access specialist training and professional registration. Engineering and technology professionals are increasingly working on complex challenges in multi-disciplinary environments. The support on offer is tailored to meet the changing needs of your employee as they grow and develop, which is why our members regard the IET as their professional home for life. In short, membership of the IET provides the tools they need to deliver for your business.

If you'd like to know more about the IET and how we can work with you to develop the skills and realise the potential of employees like Iyalla John Alamina please visit www.theiet.org/businesspartners.

Yours sincerely

Nigel Fine BSc MBA CEng FICE FIET
Chief Executive and Secretary